SEL Matrix

The Capable Foundation embraces the belief that children need to see themselves represented in the stories they love. And we want inclusive stories to drive authentic discourse about inclusion and difference, conversations that empower children to see the highest potential in themselves and their peers. The Capable Foundation has identified Five Pillars that frame our work.

Lesson 3 - Arrival

QUESTION STEMS

Do This section of the book focuses on Rae's disability.

- Provide some time to focus on Rae's limb difference.
- Rae was born with one bone in her right forearm, while most kids have two.
 - Rae's right arm is shorter than her left and her hand has two fingers.
 - Rae is like most five-year olds.

The author clearly explains her limb difference, plus shares Rae's perspective:
 "It wasn't strange to Rae because it was all she knew. It only seemed to be something that other people cared about."
